Don't Overlook This

A Careful Perusal Will Prove Its Value to Every Advertiser Reader.

The average man is a doubter, and there is little wonder that this is so. Misrepresentations make people skeptical. Now-a-days the public ask for better evidence than the testimony of strangers. Here is proof which should convince every Advertiser reader.

W. F. Cotton, farmer, Deering street, Norway, Me., says: "I was glad to find a remedy that would cure me of kidney trouble and backache. I had suffered for a long time. Some days the trouble would be so bad I could hardly do anything. I seemed to be sore all over, and my back pained constantly. The kidney secretions were irregular in passage and there was a great deal of sediment in them. Doan's Kidney Pills were so highly praised that I finally got a box, and they gave me relief right away. In a short time I was cured. I got this remedy at Stone's Drug Store and recommend it highly."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cts. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York sole agents for the United States.

The Other Man's Lead.

Written for the Advertiser.

We are well past a day that made history grand

Do you know what it stands for, this day above all?

Do you show independence not once in a while

And you follow like puppy or dunce, toward that good or evil point of view, as you follow the other man's lead.

One man may be leading a way that seems strong.

In a devil may care sort of pace, his fast move to music, his voice is a song, and there's even a smile on his face.

There are no slow vibrations of mockery there, He should kneel and be solemn and show all his care.

And how deep in his soul can you see, Your good honest Christian; he leads the right way.

I will follow him. Ho! for more speed; Ah! his soul wears a blanket just watch him

And stars and stripes, Never follow another man's lead, Let the God that's within you ever dictate your trail.

Independent of all who surround you, If you're led by your conscience you are sure

Not advice of the rabble confound you. Let no man detain you, let no man urge you on; When the Lord dwells within you to break stride you

When the Lord dwells within you to break stride you, Always smile when the other man weeps, why

Will relieve scores of hearts that are bleeds

Yon blaze your own trail to those peaty white gates, For you stray to another man's leading.

But if you should be to all just as I say, It would be to me, lead by my hand, oh my, If you shouldn't, you'd follow some other poor

Who would lead you no better than I; The leader each think they are doing much good.

That he leads you right while he strays, We'll go on and each one of us saw his own

But you'll ponder what's the other man says, There's no never part ways that lead to the goal.

Among thousands entwining and crossed; There's no never feeling in any man's soul, Some may be forgotten and lost.

With a laugh for each folly, a smile for each sin, And a glow for each cloud in the sky, You'll find independence every day of your

But you'll find when the other man's dry, THE DREAMER.

Joseph Andrews' Letters.

In Lovell Village and Vicinity.

No. XVI.

We will now go to Lovell village and journey up towards the Center. The village has changed but little from what it was in my boyhood days. The old mill, improved by the (locks), the dam and wagon bridge are there. The neat old brick schoolhouse down on the flat, the fine Wood mansion, the brick church began in 1850, and in fact with a few exceptions nearly all of the village is much as it was in 1852, when one late November day with Uncle Isaac Andrews I attended the funeral of my half-brother, Stephen Andrews, who was laid away that day in the village cemetery. He was one of my elder brothers and although I do not remember of meeting with him but twice and was but eight years old when he died, yet I remember him well and thought him a very nice looking and appearing man. He died from stoppage of the bowels, so the doctors said, in great agony. He could not lay upon the bed but knelt beside it while two strong men stood at his sides and held him. It was as if they could hear his groans all over the village, until mortification set in and the pain was gone, and he told them to lay him on the bed.

He married Martha Woodbury of Sweden. Their only living child, Martha, married Dr. Edwin Ballard of Fryeburg. He is dead and Mrs. Ballard is now living with her son and daughter in North Dakota. Stephen's mother, Hannah Barker, my father's first wife, has this inscription on her tombstone in the Center Lovell cemetery, "In memory of Mrs. Hannah Andrews, wife of Mr. Abraham Andrews, Jr., died Oct. 17th, 1804, aged 20 years." In my father's old family Bible, which I now have, is this record written in his own hand: "Hannah B. Andrews died Oct. 17th, 1804, aged 20 years. Thus showing that even the silent gravestones do not always tell the truth.

I was never very much acquainted in Lovell village. Enos Heald, Barnes Walker, Gerry Kimball, John Hobbs, Dennis Moore and his son George, James Walker and Jock Farrington are about all that I can recall. All but one of whom have answered to the boatman's call. On my last visit I found but three familiar faces amongst the village throngs. They were George H. Moore, Cyrus Chapman and David Lord, the latter one of my Center Lovell schoolmates. With each of these old friends I made short visits.

As I climbed the steep hill towards No. 4 and passed the Bryant home I was reminded, as I always am when I pass that fine old brick mansion, of what always seemed to me "Dan's inhumanity to man." I do not know any of the merits of the case, but I do know that when I was a half grown boy, and the town paupers were auctioned off to the lowest cash bidder for a year's board, that Uncle Isaac Andrews bid off old Mr. Bryant and Elsie Mead, sister, the latter an almost helpless paralytic. Mr. Bryant was well past his 80th year and the father of Squire Bryant. The old gent was a remarkably smart old man for one of his age, and frequently would take his long pipe and go to the lake a mile or more distant, fishing. I do not remember that he ever brought home any fish, but he went and spent the day presumably in fishing. "On several occasions he earned twenty-five or fifty cents tobacco money by digging rocks and stumps out of the ground for Uncle Isaac, who almost always had a job of that kind for any one that wanted work.

I remember that one time by Uncle Isaac's commands that young "numskull," myself, had the oxen hitched to a stump that the old gent had been digging around, but it was a hard pull and young "numskull" could not make the oxen do their best. Squire Bryant took the good stick and made the oxen come around flying. He got them in the right position, then with goad and voice he nearly drove them through the yoke but they took the stump with them. Some day he and Uncle Isaac did get along well together and he left before the year was up, and the selectmen found him another boarding place. I understood that the next year the town officers compelled Squire Bryant to support his aged father.

Continuing my walk, I passed the Congregational parsonage, then down the hill past the old watering trough, that in one form or another has furnished water for both man and beast since my earliest recollection, on dry, sandy level road past the cemetery, where the large number of little G. A. R. flags that were fluttering in the breeze told plaider than words could tell that a multitude of the "Boys in Blue" had been buried there.

I noted also the road branching off to the left that led to the Whitchoy Hutchins' home, where in the "good old times" Uncle Isaac used to go to have his little flask filled, and it was then this town agency for the sale of liquors for medical and other uses.

No. 4 I remember mostly of Uncle Moses Hutchins and his grocery store. He was lame and used to hustle around waiting upon his customers. It was in this store that big Amos Harriman came near being killed in a fight with one Sterling. The latter was a small man but it was supposed that he held an iron weight in his hand and gave Harriman a fearful pounding in the face.

The Odd Fellows have a fine lodge building here, which they own, with a store room below and a fine hall and ante rooms above. They also have a good large stable with a large number of single stalls for the shelter of their faithful friends, the horses. I had the pleasure of attending two lodge meetings here.

During my stay at Lovell Center I visited in about twenty families, and in nearly every home I found one or more members of the local Odd Fellows and Rebekah lodges. It was to this lodge that Frank Colby of West Fryeburg belonged when he made his last trip to the west from which he never returned, and of whom I wrote in one of my Fryeburg sketches.

Leaving No. 4, I continued my way up the Center road, past the old Bragdon farm, where my brother Abraham lived for some time. The buildings are all gone, and only pasture and timber are left to greet the eye. I have often thought of the sad fate of the Bragdon family, and the facility of running away from danger.

There was himself and wife and five bright, fine looking boys, the oldest about 15 years of age. Diphtheria had been claiming its victims all around them, and Mr. Bragdon sold his farm and moved to a town not very far away and which seemed to be free from the dreaded scourge. But it was not so to be for it was not long before diphtheria broke out in his family and he lost every child, and his wife came very near following the children. Continuing our quest we pass the old Warren Charles farm, then up on Barker's Hill, past the old Martin Fickett farm, now owned by Wilson Brown. Past the fine old John Barker mansion, then vacant but since sold and valuable improvements being made to it for a permanent home for the new owner. Thence on to the old Andrews Barker place, but owned since about 1850 by the late Benjamin Russell, and now owned by his son, Benjamin Russell, Jr., where we will stop for a visit and get our bearings.

Benjamin Russell, the present owner, is a "chip of the old block," a carpenter by trade. He combines farming with his trade, and his well filled hay and cattle barn showed that he was a progressive farmer. He is deservedly popular with his fellow townsmen and of late years has frequently represented them on the town board. Mr. and Mrs. Russell have a very pleasant home, and with plenty around them to make life pleasant and enjoyable should enjoy to the full life's choicest blessings. Here also I found another empty chair. Uncle Ben Russell, who four years ago was so full of life and fun, had gone home to join his life's companion, who through a long and busy life had labored with him not only in building a home here below, but in laying the foundation for a "mansion in the skies" when this earthly tabernacle was dissolved.

Howe's Circus.

One of the cleanest and most up-to-date of the smaller circuses gave two excellent performances at the Fair Grounds, Friday afternoon and evening. A street parade passed through the two villages during the forenoon and consisted of a fine showing of large plump horses drawing the heavy wagons containing the animals. There were also a large number of ponies bearing clever riders. The women were dressed in white with glistening spangles. There were also present in the line of parade camels, zebras, tigers and the huge elephants, one of which wore for her "hobble" a heavy iron chain on her forward legs without any extra space to spare at each step.

A circus parade would not be complete without the aid of the "clowns" and these were a rather dignified set, not bubbling over with nonsense on the streets but made up for it at the tent performances. The callopes as usual was along toward the last of the parade but its peals of music announced its presence long before it appeared. Last but not least appeared the old man and woman doing stunts at bouncing on the load of hay, which always takes well.

There were large crowds present at both performances, the seating capacity, which is about 8,000, was all taken.

The beautiful black Arabian ring horses did some wonderful performing, the time, waiting and two-stopping in time with music with almost human intelligence.

The elephants which were included in the menagerie were also star features and actually worked with bells on their toes with as much grace as could be consistent with their bulky proportions.

The aerial work was daring enough to satisfy those possessing a decidedly small "bump of caution," and a large variety of stunts were pulled off. Among the special features was the "swinging girls," girls suspended in mid air by their teeth, flying through space. The Japanese acts were among the best and made a big hit. The little lady could turn one way as well as the other, and everything the little lady couldn't do in the way of a stunt wasn't worth doing.

There was the little pig which followed one of the clowns and stopped to suck a nursing bottle, also the goose which followed with unerring step around the tent.

After the circus was over a concert was given on the side and consisted of singing and dancing by several darkies, also a slight hand performance. Something was going on all the time and was a continuous performance without any waits.

NORWAY AND VICINITY

Spent Birthday in Garden.
 The following was published in the Boston Transcript of Aug. 6, Darius Cobb is a member of the Norway family of Cobbs, the son of Rev. Sylvanus Cobb and grandson of Ebenezer Cobb, Jr. He was a brother of the late Sylvanus Cobb, Jr.

"Darius Cobb, the veteran Boston artist, Aug. 6 reached the age of 78 years, spending his anniversary quietly at his home in Newton Upper Falls, with members of his family about him. Mr. Cobb, who was born in Malden on Aug. 6, 1834, was up this morning before five o'clock and for two hours before breakfast he worked hard in his garden weeding, hoeing and caring for the various things planted there. He says that he feels almost as young and active today as he did before the days of the Civil War, in which he served in the Forty-fourth Massachusetts Volunteers. Mr. Cobb added that not in years has he felt a single ache or pain.

"He delights in outdoor work and life and, indeed, a large part of this birthday anniversary has been spent in his garden. He is a member of various organizations, among them the Old Schoolboys of Boston Association, at whose annual and semi-annual dinner gatherings he always is one of the ringleaders in promoting fun and playing pranks, just as he used to do in his boyhood days. He is a singer of marked ability, even at his present age, and at the schoolboy gatherings he always is obliged to sing, "The Sword of Bunker Hill."

James L. Paige of St. Louis, Mo., is in Norway visiting his sister, Mrs. M. Holmes, who has been very sick. Mr. Paige was in the grocery business, a partner of George W. Holmes at the Falls, about twenty-five years ago. He is a native of North Waterford and while here visited his Waterford home. Mr. Paige is in the grocery business in St. Louis.

Committee of arrangements—Freeland Howe, W. W. Whitmarsh, Geo. L. Beal, Geo. F. Jones, John H. Withersell.

It further explains—in making our bow to the public it may be well for us to state our aims and objects:

We shall try and give a strictly moral entertainment, avoiding as much as we can anything that is objectionable to all personalities; but shall not be responsible for anything that appears in the procession, as every tub must stand on its own bottom.

The crowing of the cock in "Fiddlyville" will be the signal for the day to make its debut; at which time the select men will cause the bell on the Court House to be rung 30 minutes, and a snapper to be cracked on the steps of the new jail.

At sunrise Pigweed and Ham's Battery who have been ordered out for artillery practice, will fire a national salute of one gun on Pike's Peak.

At six o'clock, a second-hand sky rocket will be touched off from Cole's Island, and a "cracker," kindly loaned from Dexter's bakery, will be fired from the steamboat landing; whereupon the bells of the city will be thrown to the breeze at half-mast, while the flags will ring out merry peals in honor of the day.

The public are requested to hold their breath until this is being done.

At half-past six—the procession will be formed on Water street, right resting on Fooduck, and will be reviewed by the School Committee, who will then retire to wood and water up, previous to firing up for the day.

The procession will then meander through the principal streets as follows: Leaving Water Street they will pass through Bridge and Main streets as far down as Jason Rowe's; returning, follow Main St. as far as Cottage, pass in Cottage and out Deering, through Main to Pleasant, up Pleasant as far as C. L. Hathaway's; counter-march back to Water, where they will break ranks and evaporate.

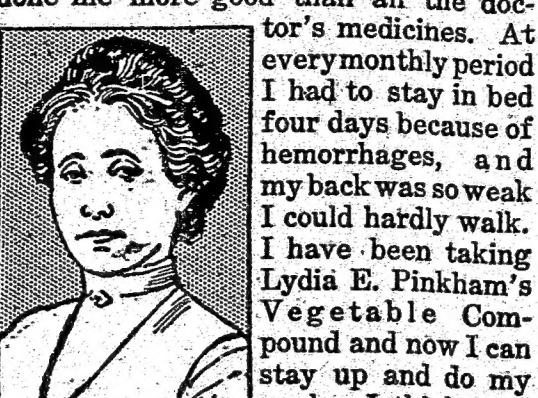

Person residing on the line of march are respectfully requested to drape their front yards with tubs of lemonade.

Capt. Schouvaloff, Lieut. Schausenbier, Sergt. Schlusensyans, Committee of Arrangements.

WHERE DOCTORS FAILED TO HELP

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Mrs. Green's Health—Her Own Statement.

Covington, Mo.—"Your medicine has done me more good than all the doctors' medicines. At every monthly period I had to stay in bed four days because of hemorrhages, and my back was so weak I could hardly walk. I have been taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now I can stay up and do my work. I think it is the best medicine on earth for women."

—Mrs. JENNIE GREEN, Covington, Mo.

How Mrs. Cline Avoided Operation

Brownsville, Ind.—"I can say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me more good than anything else. One doctor said I must be operated upon for a serious female trouble and that nothing could help me but an operation."

"I had hemorrhages and at times could not get any medicine to stop them. I got in such a weak condition that I would have died if I had not got relief soon."

"Several women who had taken your Compound, told me to try it and I did and found it to be the right medicine to build up the system and overcome female troubles."

"I am now in great deal better health than I ever expected to be, so I think I ought to thank you for it."—Mrs. O. M. CLINE, S. Main St., Brownsville, Ind.

YOU CAN SAVE MONEY F. H. Noyes Co. NORWAY, SOUTH PARIS

Frank Young has purchased a 3 horse power, 10-foot steel motor boat which he has placed in Lake Pennessewassee.

The annual reunion of the Twenty-third Maine Regiment Association will be held Thursday, August 23, Grange Hall, Norway.

Mrs. Sabrina Spring of Portland is visiting her niece, Mrs. E. C. Libby. Mrs. Spring is an unusually smart woman for one who is 86 years of age and came to Norway unattended.

Charles Palachae, professor of mineralogy at Harvard University, who was a member of the Harriman scientific expedition to Alaska, has been visiting this vicinity in order to inspect Maine gem collections owned hereabouts and to visit the tourmaline mines and other gem fields. He has been in Stow, Paris and Norway and has now gone to northern Oxford County. He spent two days last week with George R. Howe in Norway and greatly admired his valuable collection of both uncut and cut tourmalines and other stones. Prof. Palachae is securing some notable additions for the Harvard mineral collection.

Did you ever think of the difference between "work" and "labor"? The one signifies the noble activity of intellect and energy. The other suggests pain and effort. Man works, a machine that is going badly "labors." God "works," but never would be said to "labor." The derivations indicate that work stands for productive intelligent effort mentally or physically; labor stands for the effort fatiguing and full of pain.

Lawn Party.
 The New Church lawn party was held Tuesday afternoon and evening, August 6th, on the grounds of New Church hall. The arrangement of the grounds was in charge of B. T. Newman, the artist, and exquisite taste was displayed. Picnicking booths were made from the grassy brooks, which were surrounded by evergreen trees with festoons of lanterns.

The candy booth, in charge of Mrs. T. Wadelle and Abby Smith, did a thriving business, selling 70 pounds to the more possessors of a "sweet tooth."

May Hastings behind a rustic fence made aprons a specialty.

The attractive fancy table was in charge of Mrs. E. E. Hastings and Mrs. Chas. Fox.

The "mystery" table, in charge of Mrs. Frank Hill and Mollie Hutchins, had piles of packages which were sold out "in no time."

The art table, in charge of Mrs. Hattie Pike, was covered with beautiful photographs of William Post, showing some of his best work, and each bearing his signature. A large number was sold.

Mrs. B. T. Newman and Mrs. Charles Howe took charge of the lemonade and ice cream booth, while under the hall a oyster lunch was going on, in charge of Mrs. Charles Hurlin, Mrs. Zetia Howe, Mrs. George Warren, Mrs. Mary Post, Mary Gordon and Mrs. George Shirley.

Delicious ladies and hungry men were taking their plates, napkins and forks and helping themselves to sandwiches, eggs, coffee, cakes and ice cream.

Mrs. Jordan's orchestra of Portland furnished music for dancing in the evening.

The beauty of the lighted grounds attracted many automobile parties. A substantial sum was realized.

Alvin Cushman of Portland has been stopping with Gerald Howe at Camp Minnehaha, Lovewell.

Mrs. William Livingston of Bridgton (Lucia Towle) has been at her old home in Fryeburg for a few days. Her son and daughter, who were with her, accompanied her.

Phra Chase of Brooklyn, N. Y., arrived on Thursday at the Howe camps, Lovewell, where she will spend some weeks. Miss Chase is a successful teacher of the piano, and is connected with the Charlotte Mason School of Piano Playing.

Mrs. Whitman Cook died Thursday afternoon, August 8, after a serious illness of several months. Mrs. Whitman (Alice Harriman) was born in Lovell, the daughter of John and Alice Harriman. She is the last of nine children. Her age was 55. She was buried in North Bellingham, Mass., where her little son is buried, and which was the former home of her husband.

Charlotte Hodgdon has been at Mountain View, N. H., for a week. Percy Brown and party have been camping a week at Glenora and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Stone of Boston have been visiting Rev. and Mrs. B. N. Stone.

Lulu Farrington of Portland was a week-end guest at Howe's Camp, Lovewell, Ind.

A Graveyard Story.

Here are the names of Mrs. M. D. Wright's (nee Packard) relatives buried in the old Stephen Packard cemetery in Woodstock. Joseph Packard, John Packard and Fred Packard died and were buried in Australia. He has a son there and family who talked coming to America some day. Stephen Packard and wife and Daniel Packard, his father, the Revolutionary soldier, are buried there, and more younger children that we know nothing of, only they died young. Daniel Packard must have a government stone put to his grave. If Governor Perham was alive he could tell us of their history as he lived in boyhood there and was a schoolmate of Stephen Packard, grandfather to the writer. They were a remarkable smart family and direct descendants to some Packard who came from England in 1638 and settled in Massachusetts. Rev. Edward N. Packard of Stratford, Conn., is a descendant. Holman Day's New Book.

The Red Lane by Holman Day, well known Maine author, is published by the Harpers. The scene of the story is laid along the border between Maine and New Brunswick near the land of Evangeline. Mr. Day is intimately acquainted with this section of the country and many of his characters in The Red Lane with all their eccentricities, have their living prototypes.

The story pictures the primitive warfare of the borders and at the same time develops the love interest to a point that gives the story a satisfactory ending. Advance orders for the book were so large that a second edition was put to press even before the first was published.

The Harpers sent out a brief sketch of the versatile author of The Red Lane.

"Holman Day was born in Vassalboro, Maine, 1868, graduated from Colby College, 1887, entered journalism, and through his connection with Maine and Boston newspapers became intimately acquainted with every phase of Down east life. The reputation which he has made as a journalist was enhanced by his success as a poet.

"His books of verse, Up in Maine, Pine Tree Ballads, etc., obtained a wide popularity. The attention attracted by the originality and humor of his short stories led him to turn from journalism to fiction, and he is eagerly sought as a contributor to the leading magazines. His first novel, Squire Pin, was followed by King Spruce, The Ramrodders, and the Skipper and the Skipped. Mr. Day is one of the most popular after dinner speakers and lecturers and has frequently taken an active part in Maine politics. At the present time he is living in Portland."

Death to the Water Bar.

The water bars on the highways must go. Automobiles and auto clubs have commenced war on their continued use and in several test cases damages have been collected for injuries to machines on these bars. The waterbar, as ordinarily constructed, is entirely unnecessary. The water can be turned from the highway without the construction of a bar directly across the highway. The disappearance of the water bar would be appreciated by all who have occasion to ride over the highways, whether in the common carriage or in an automobile.

Hebron Academy.

An Appeal.

The athletic field at Hebron Academy for the number of years in use has scored more victories perhaps than that of any other school in New England, but if one not familiar with it should examine it, he would be surprised to note the unfitness of the field for running and for good work. In spite of this, victories have been won and limbs have not been broken, but an accident has been invited every time a boy has run upon certain portions of the athletic field.

Two years ago a determined effort was begun by alumni with the aid of the principal to raise money enough to take the earth that makes an ugly appearance north of the athletic field and bring it down on the athletic field making that adequate and beautiful and the campus between the athletic field and Sturtevant Hall a landscape beautiful to the eye.

We have now $1800 with which to do this work which has been laid out by an engineer, who is supervising the actual grading now with six pairs of horses and a proper number of men, but the engineer tells the committee of the Board of Trustees having the matter in charge, namely, Dr. N. M. Marshall of Portland, Honorable J. S. Macey of Gardiner and F. O. Stanley, esq., of Newton, that with $1800 he can finish the athletic field but cannot complete the landscape north of it. He can complete the whole admirably making a safe field and exact quarter mile running track, finish and grade the campus for $800 more.

This appeal then is to the friends of the school, of sport and of education, and to former students and alumni, to come to the rescue of one. Any gift from $1 up will be acceptable and it is hoped that every loyal friend of the Academy or former student or alumnus will send to Principal W. E. Sargent or Treasurer L. C. Teague such contribution as he is inclined to give towards finishing this work already begun. If the engineer's plan was before you whom we hope and expect to help, you would give generously and at once to grade the campus and athletic field. This done, Hebron Academy will have one of the most attractive, beautiful and useful playgrounds and landscapes to be found in any school anywhere. Nature has given unusually attractive features in the location of the Academy. The engineer with $600 more will make the campus, athletic field and quarter mile track a splendid setting for the school and buildings.

Please respond to this appeal at once until we shall secure the necessary $800. Any contributions will be most gladly and appreciatively received and six weeks from now, if this $800 is secured, the visitor here will see a reality that will make him glad that he contributed and that promptly.

W. E. SARGENT, Principal.
Hebron, Maine, August 10, 1912.

Lead-and-Oil

is not a bad paint; it's middling, just about middling.

It costs as much as Devco, and looks as good for two or three years; but 3 years is enough; the best praise of a good lead-and-oil job is that it looks good and lasts 3 years.

You can trust Devco twice as long; it will take good care of your property twice as long. So far as wear is concerned, Devco is good for 6 years.

It lasts so long, it isn't worth while to say how long, nor indeed to know how long.

Lead-and-oil has one advantage: painters can monkey with it; not good ones; good painters don't monkey. Paint is no longer a mystery.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a brick dust sediment, or settling, stringy or milky appearance often indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back are also symptoms that tell you the kidneys and bladder are out of order and need attention.

What To Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills almost every wish in correcting rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. Corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest because of its remarkable health restoring properties. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Mention this paper and, remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.
